EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
AHMEDABAD, MARCH 18

THE Gujarat Electronics and Software Industries Association (GESIA) presented the third edition of its annual awards — GESIA AWARDS 2010 — at a ceremony in Ahmedabad on Thursday.

E-Infochips bagged the Best Software Company, Gujarat, award. It also shared an award with Infibeam for the Best Innovation by an ICT company. The award for the Highest Employment Generator, non-Gujarat, was given to Aegis BPO.

'These awards not only acknowledge major contributions by individuals, but also encourage rest of the players to stand out and make Gujarat a hub of electronics industry'

Ravi Saxena, Principal Secretary, Science & Technology, Gujarat, who was present at the ceremony, said: "ICT and electronics industry has made a significant progress in the state and is bound to excel in the days to come."

Jaimin Shah, vice-president and convener of the GESIA Awards 2010, said: "An eminent jury decided on the nominations from leading companies of software, BPO, telecom, ISP and electronics industry."

GESIA president Nirav Shah said the awards not only acknowledge major contributions by individual players in the state, "but also encourages rest of the players to stand out and make Gujarat the hub of ICT and electronics industry".
